Colonials Stun Mercer Bears

The Georgia College Colonials started this year's soccer season by defeating the Mercer Bears, Tuesday, September 30th. GC scored once in the first-half making the score 1-0 at the half. In the second half of the game, GC scored four more times while Mercer scored only once. The final score was 5-1, GC.

The first goal of the season was made by Mohammed Kamara. This was the only point made by either team in the first half. The second half was celebrated by a series of shots on the opponents side of the field. The second goal came in the tenth minute and again Mohammed Kamara made the goal. Scot Lewis scored the third and fourth points for the Colonials. Full backs and sweepers, headed by Mike Iteogu, effectively controlled the Bears so they only scored once in the game. The final goal was scored by George Harper and this increased the goal tally to five. Assisting these three men with their points were Joe Smith, Mike Hansard, Sandy Martinez and George Harper.

Friday, October 3rd at 3:00, GC hosts North Georgia College at the Athletic Complex. Monday the Colonials travel to Berry College in Rome, Georgia for their 3:00 game.

NTE To Be Given At GC

The National Teacher Examinations will be administered on Nov. 8 at Georgia College, a Middle Georgia test center.

The examinations are offered to college seniors preparing to teach, to teachers applying for certification or licensure, and to those seeking positions in school systems which encourage or require the NTE.

The designation of Georgia College as a test center for these examinations will give prospective teachers in this area an opportunity to compare their performance on the examinations with candidates throughout the country who take the tests, according to Elizabeth E. Hoke, counselor and coordinator of testing at the college.

Last year, approximately 100,000 candidates registered to take the examinations which are designed to assess cognitive knowledge and understanding in professional education, general education, and 28 subject-field specializations. The examinations, which are prepared and administered by Educational Testing Service of Princeton, N.J., are designed to assess only those aspects of teacher education that are validly and reliably measured by well constructed paper-and-pencil tests.

Information bulletins describing registration procedures and registration forms may be obtained from Mrs. Hoke, Room 102 in Education Building.

Each student must register for the Examination and secure an admission ticket in Room 102 of the Education Building. If you plan to take the Examination in October you must register

"Winemaking 101" Becoming A Popular Course On Campus

The latest trend on college campuses is to sip and study the wines of California.

More than 200 wine appreciation courses are now offered in connection with colleges and universities, and there are probably 600 campuses where wine studies go on, according to Wine Institute, the association of California wine growers.

On many campuses, wine has become a standard part of the curriculum in home economics, chemistry, botany, biology, geography, and sociology.

Wine Institute cites several contributing causes for the wine studies boom. First, college instructors and administrators want to make their courses more appealing to students. And, since there's plenty of history, science and technology involved in the story of wine, it's easy to relate to other college studies.

As for college students, Wine Institute speculates that they are flocking to wine courses because:

--Wine is an important part of cultures and traditions that students admire.

--California wines offer more diversity and appeal than ever before, providing something to suit everyone's taste.

--Wine is a gift of nature, increasingly viewed as a natural, healthful, moderate beverage. College students are interested in natural foods and beverages.

Wine Institute reports hundreds of requests from educators for information on teaching about wine. To fill the need, a Wine on Campus Packet has been designed to assist in implementing on continuing any wine-related activity in an educational setting. The packet includes helpful hints for getting a wine course going, a discussion of teaching techniques to encourage the proper use of wine, and an outline and syllabus for an introductory course. Also in the packet are suggestions for starting a wine and food program, and for fitting wine into existing college curricula.

Single copies are available free to educators from Wine Institute at 165 Post Street, San Francisco, California 94108.

Fall Non-Credit Cover Wide Variety

FACULTY FACTS

Case Named Director

Calvin R. Case has been named director of the new cooperative education office at Georgia College by GC President J. Whitney Bunting.

Case will administer a program at the college designed to provide students with both formal classroom instruction and career-related learning experiences in business and government.

"The aim of the program, initially," he said, "is to bring to the attention of the students an additional opportunity for learning and to provide a means of allowing the student to learn outside of the academic setting."

Case came to GC from Albany Junior College where he worked for two years as assistant coordinator of the cooperative education program there.

Case also taught at Albany and at St. Clair County (Mich.) Community College. From 1965 to 1973 he taught business courses and served as athletic director at Sandusky (Mich.) High School.

He received his BS degree from Central Michigan University in 1965, majoring in business education. He received his MA in education from Michigan State University in 1971.

Case, 32, a native of Marion, Mich., was selected Albany Jaycee of the Year in 1975.

Dr. Edward E. Waali, an assistant professor of chemistry at Georgia College has received a two-year grant of $10,530 from the Petroleum Research Fund (PRF) for research on a new reactive compound, cyclononapentaene.

The grant, which took effect Sept. 1, provides funds for the hiring of two GC chemistry students to conduct full-time research during the summer.

The PRF, which is administered by the American Chemical Society, was created in 1944 by six major petroleum companies to financially support basic chemical research in the petroleum field.

Dr. Waali came to GC in 1972 from the University of Florida where he served as an assistant professor of chemistry.

EDITORIALS

In this heavily private-car-oriented society, there are many hassles for those who don't have cars, or odder yet, don't even drive. Car drivers pay, too, by suffering higher and higher gasoline prices, having more and more traffic to fight, etc. And we all suffer from increased air pollution, fuel shortages, and the unseemly spectacle of trees, buildings, and neighborhoods being obliterated to make way for more expressways and parking lots.

Here at G.C., students without cars have a problem if they have classes at the Athletic Complex, 2 miles away, or wish to go to games there. Students with cars have problems, too, because when they return to the main campus they are faced with the all-to-familiar struggle to find a parking space.

Perhaps this situation could be alleviated somewhat by having a bus or two to commute between the complex and the main campus, both between classes, and before and after games.

The exact logistics of such an undertaking would need to be worked out, of course, as well as the finances. But, as is well known, a busload of people can be transported for a lot less fuel than if those same people travel separately in cars. Thus, a needed service would be provided to students as well as a small move being made to conserve a little energy. (And the fuel shortage is no joke, as we may well find out more and more in the next few years.)

It's something worth considering, anyway.

To Students,

The counseling Office has been moved to Room 135 of the Maxwell College Union. Nancy Corbin, counselor, will be in her office Monday through Friday from 10-12 a.m. and 2-4 p.m. On Tuesday and Wednesday evenings from 5:30-7:30 p.m. and at other hours by appointment.

The goal of the counseling service is to aid students in dealing with personal problems, developing effective study skills, and making appropriate educational and career plans. Your cooperation in making students aware of the service is greatly appreciated.

To

Organizational Presidents

The time is near for all organizations to submit a contestant for the Miss Georgia College Pageant 1976. You are urged to have a contestant in mind because the pageant will be here very soon.

We want applications in no later than October 17, 1975. It takes a great deal of planning and hard work to make a pageant successful. Also, money is required to send Miss GC to the Miss Georgia Pageant, as well as finance our own pageant. With this in mind, we must ask a $20.00 entry fee for each contestant. Pick applications in room 113 Maxwell College Union.

The first step in any pageant is to gather contestants. We strongly urge you to submit one or more contestants in the Miss Georgia College Pageant. Please complete the form and return it to Miss Harriette Donahoo, Maxwell College Union by October 17. Please fill out a separate form for each contestant.

Dear Editor

Dear Editor,

As Sports Editor of this year's Spectrum, I would like to take this opportunity to publicly say that I will do everything necessary to include the cheerleaders in this year's annual. Several people have expressed concern over this point since these dedicated girls who contribute so much to the GC spirit were somehow omitted from the '75 Spectrum.

Speaking on behalf of the rest of the Sports Staff, we will have all intercollegiate and intramural sports well covered also. Any suggestions concerning the athletic program's coverage in the Spectrum are welcomed with open arms.

Dear Editor

Dear Editor:

Governor George Busbee has declared October "Energy Conservation Month" in Georgia and has designated the State Energy Office as the lead agency in this effort.

As part of the month's activities the Georgia Press Association will sponsor and judge a contest for the best editorial and the best editorial cartoon on energy conservation published during October.

The contest was originally intended to include only schools in the University System of Georgia, but due to widespread interest in Energy Conservation Month it has been expanded to include private institutions as well.

Following this letter are the rules for the contest.

The awards will be presented at the annual Georgia Press Association awards ceremony, February 20 in Athens. The State Energy Office retains the right to republish winning material.

If you have any questions, feel free to call Ms. Diane Cousineau (404) 656-5176. We look forward to working with you.

Sincerely,
Lewis C. Spruill
Director

Spirit Of '76

The Black Student Alliance of Georgia College held its first meeting on Thursday evening, September 25, in the campus church. The Freshmen were orientated to the purposes and goals of the BSA. Among the many events that took place were the introduction of officers, purposes of committees and an exuberant welcome by the President, Larry Stephens.

The goals of the BSA were discussed with an open mind to new ideas and new opinions. Many ideas were given and will be taken into consideration. A few of the ideas were Thanksgiving baskets, tutoring services and a recognition banquet.

After the meeting the students mingled and met new friends. Later, everyone journeyed to the refreshment table.

While the continued spirit of Thursday evening, the Black Student Alliance will continue to prosper in many areas which are vital to themselves and to the community at large.

3 Georgia Student Gov't.

Student governments at three institutions in the University System of Georgia have formed a task force, with the goal of obtaining more student input into how their activity fees are spent.

The three student governments participating are those of West Georgia College, Georgia State University, and the University of Georgia.

The current policy of the state Board of Regents is that the "presidents of each of the 32 state colleges is held responsible for how the students' activity fees are allocated. Recently there have been occasions of disagreement between student governments and administrations at several schools regarding allocation of activity fees. Steve Haase, treasurer of the Georgia State University Student Government Association feels that if there were a change in the current Regents' policy, the problem would be solved.

"What we want to do is take the responsibility off the administration's shoulders," Haase said. He added that the students would "still want the administration to help, but we want to make the decisions ourselves."

G.S.U. Dean of Students William Baggett agreed that the students did not have adequate time for input into the allocation decision this year, but said there will be more time next year, due to planned changes. He said the administration is "willing to talk" with students about more input. He said, however, that "it would not be proper" for the administration to give up control.

University of Georgia students attended a Board of Regents meeting earlier this year in an unsuccessful effort to get the activity fee budget at that school amended. It was part of an effort to have the Regents' policy changed.

The SGA at the University in Athens is on record as being in favor of students having the final responsibility in activity fee budgeting.
